HOW TO CITE YOUR SOURCES USING MLA FORMAT

Tutorial
Plagiarism

- Plagiarism occurs when a student presents the work, writing or an idea of another as if it were original to the student.

- Whenever a student presents written or oral work for credit which includes words, data or ideas of others credit must be given by supplying appropriate references and/or citations. The specifics of this may vary depending upon the specific academic discipline, but it is proper academic practice in every field of study to give credit to source materials and persons.

- Examples of plagiarism may include: Using another person’s words, data, ideas or opinions, even if completely paraphrased, without proper citation. Submitting a paper purchased from a term paper service as one’s own work. Failing to accurately document any information taken from the Internet. Submitting anyone else’s paper as one’s own work.
To find examples of how to cite JSTOR and more databases click here on “Citation Guide.”

Use the library webpage to help you cite your sources the MLA way.
Click “print resources” to find examples for how to cite books.
Here is a list of different types of books. Click on the links to find the example citation.
This is an example of correct citation for a book with two authors.

Click “electronic resources” to find examples for how to cite database articles, eBooks, and websites.
MLA Style for Electronic Sources

Works Cited List

Select the following databases and/or type of Web site and use the examples given as a guide for referencing sources in the Works Cited list. Printable versions of the documentation handouts may be viewed by clicking on the 📝.

Library Databases
- Academic Search Complete
- Academic OneFile
- African American Experience

Web Sites and Other Electronic Sources
- Article on a web site
- Entire Web Site
- Home Page for a Course
Scroll down until you find the database you have used. The library databases are in alphabetical order. Click on the name of the database and you will find examples of how to cite articles from that database.
This is an example of a correct citation for an article found in JSTOR.

In-text citation: Carl Whitmer called Beethoven "text of quotation" (25). OR "Text of quotation" (Whitmer 25).
Here are the examples of how to cite eBooks. There are two different examples.
This is an example of a correct citation for an eBook.

MLA Citation
ABC-CLIO eBook Collection
MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, 7th edition

Entire E-Book

Author.
Cain, Kathleen Shine.

Book Title.

Publication Location:
Santa Barbara, CA.

Publisher,

Database.

Publication Medium.

Date of Access.

In-text citation: Cain explains that "text of quotation." OR "Text of quotation" (Cain).
Questions?
Contact Kay Hogan 850-973-9422 or e-mail hogank@nfcc.edu